

3-week int'l workshop on Interdisciplinary Research begins at KU

Young researchers need to gear up to meet NEP-2020 objectives: Prof Talat

Srinagar, Dec 21: A three-week international-level workshop on interdisciplinary research methodology started at the University of Kashmir on Monday.

According to a statement, Vice-Chancellor Prof Talat Ahmad inaugurated the online workshop, organised by the varsity's Shah-i-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies (SHIIS).

Stressing on the need for promoting interdisciplinary research in academic institutions, Prof Talat said the flagship National Education Policy-2020 lays great emphasis on interdisciplinary research and young researchers therefore need to gear up to meet its objectives.

"The interdisciplinary research leads to a confluence of ideas and helps evolve strategies to address some of the pressing challenges in the society in a holistic manner," he said.

The Vice-Chancellor said young researchers should focus on "critical" problems and try to seek answers using methodologies which are appropriate to their research objectives. He congratulated SHIIS for organising the workshop which will help the present and future research scholars to learn the appropriate research methodologies and their significance.

Dean of Research at KU Prof

Shakil Ahmad Romshoo, who was a guest of honour, said interdisciplinary research is the order of the day in academic institutions across the world.

"In the NEP-2020 there is a greater focus on social science research in view of its significance to address a host of pressing societal problems. In fact, it is one of the prime mandates of universities to find solutions to such problems," he said, underlining that use of appropriate research methodologies would lead to better research outcomes while raising the standard of research conducted in academic institutions.

In his keynote address, Prof Durmus Ali Arsalan, Professor of Sociology at Mersin University Turkey spoke at length on the need for interdisciplinary research to make researchers more sound and their research original in nature.

He referred to various interdisciplinary research techniques and how these could be helpful for young researchers.

"Interdisciplinary research also enables scholars from a particular institution to visit other institutions and gain from the expertise and resources there," he said.

In his welcome address, Head, SHIIS Prof Manzoor Ahmad Bhat spoke about the relevance and significance of Islamic Studies discipline in the contemporary times.

"This discipline has the potential to inculcate and promote universal ethical values like brotherhood, fellow feeling, tolerance, composite culture, deep humanism, peaceful co-existence, accommodative spirit and above all the pluralistic outlook of the society," he said.

Dr Nasir Nabi, Assistant Professor SHIIS presented a vote of thanks and also conducted proceedings of the inaugural session, which, among others, was attended by a galaxy of eminent academics and scholars. More than 200 research scholars and Assistant Professors from different colleges and universities in the country, from varied disciplines, have registered themselves for the workshop, even as invited resource persons are from different fields of study from academic institutions from within the country and abroad, including Malaysia and Turkey.

SAD DEMISE ABDUL HAMID MEER (GILATHSAAZ)

With profound grief and sorrow we inform the sad demise of ABDUL HAMID MEER (GILATHSAAZ) S/o Mohammad Sultan Gilathsaaz R/o Beeruni Kathi

کشمیر یونیورسٹی میں 'بین شعبہ جاتی تحقیق' پر 3 روزہ ورکشاپ شروع

پروفیسر طلعت کا تعلیمی اداروں میں تحقیق کو فروغ دینے پر زور

Prof. Durmus Ali Arslan
Professor, Department of General
Sociology
Faculty of Arts and Sciences
Mersin University, Mersin, Turkey
(Chief Guest)

Prof. Talat Ahmad
Hon'ble Vice Chancellor
University of Kashmir
(Chief Patron)

Prof. Shakil Ahmad Romshoo
Dean Research
University of Kashmir
(Guest of Honour)

Dr. Nasir Nabi
(Coordinator Workshop)

Prof. Manzoor Ahmad Bhat
Head
S. H. Institute of Islamic Studies

سرینگر // کشمیر یونیورسٹی میں سوموار کو بین شعبہ جاتی تحقیق پر 3 روزہ بین الاقوامی ورکشاپ شروع ہوا۔ شاہ ہمدان انسٹیٹیوٹ آف اسلامک سٹڈیز کے اہتمام سے منعقدہ اس آن لائن ورکشاپ کا وائس چانسلر پروفیسر طلعت احمد نے افتتاح کیا۔ پروفیسر طلعت نے تعلیمی اداروں میں بین شعبہ جاتی تحقیق کو فروغ دینے کی ضرورت پر زور دیتے ہوئے کہا کہ فلیگ شپ نیشنل ایجوکیشن پالیسی 2020 بین الاقوامی تحقیق پر بہت زیادہ زور دیتی ہے اور اس وجہ سے نوجوان محققین کو اپنے مقاصد کو پورا کرنے کے لئے تیار رہنے کی ضرورت

ہے۔ انہوں نے کہا کہ نوجوان محققین کو اہم مسائل پر توجہ دینی چاہئے اور طریقہ کار کا استعمال کرتے ہوئے جوابات تلاش کرنے کی کوشش کرنی چاہئے جو ان کے تحقیقی مقاصد کے لئے موزوں ہیں۔ انہوں نے ورکشاپ کے انعقاد پر شاہ ہمدان انسٹیٹیوٹ آف اسلامک سٹڈیز کو مبارکباد پیش کی جس سے موجودہ اور آئندہ ریسرچ اسکالروں کو مناسب تحقیقی طریقہ کار اور ان کی اہمیت سیکھنے میں مدد ملے گی۔ کشمیر یونیورسٹی کے ڈین ریسرچ پروفیسر فکیل (بقیہ صفحہ 8 پر: ورکشاپ)

ورکشاپ

احمد رومشو جو کہ ورکشاپ میں بطور مہمان ذی وقار کی حیثیت سے شامل تھے، نے کہا کہ دنیا بھر کے تعلیمی اداروں میں آج کل بین شعبہ جاتی تحقیق پر زیادہ توجہ دی جا رہی ہے۔ مرسلین یونیورسٹی ترکی کے پروفیسر درمس علی ارسلان نے اپنے کلیدی خطاب میں محققین کو مزید مستحکم بنانے اور ان کی تحقیقات کو فطرت میں اصلی بنانے کے لئے بین الثانی تحقیق کی ضرورت کو اجاگر کیا۔ شاہ ہمدان انسٹیٹیوٹ آف اسلامک سٹڈیز کے پروفیسر منظور احمد بٹ نے اپنے خطاب میں عصر حاضر میں اسلامی علوم کی اہمیت کے بارے میں بات کی۔

3-week Int'l workshop on Interdisciplinary Research begins at KU

Monitor News Bureau

Srinagar, Dec 21: A three-week international-level workshop on interdisciplinary research methodology started at the University of Kashmir on Monday.

Vice-Chancellor Prof Talat Ahmad inaugurated the online workshop, organised by the university's Shah-i-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies (SHIIS).

Stressing on the need for promoting interdisciplinary research in academic institutions, Prof Talat said the flagship National Education Policy-2020 lays great emphasis on interdisciplinary research and young researchers therefore need to gear up to meet its objectives.

"The interdisciplinary research leads to a confluence of ideas and helps evolve strategies to address some of the pressing challenges in the society in a holistic manner," he said.

The Vice-Chancellor said young researchers should focus on "critical" problems and try to seek answers using methodologies which are appropriate to their research objectives. He congratulated SHIIS for organising the workshop which will help the present and future research scholars to learn the appropriate research methodologies and their significance.

Dean of Research at KU Prof Shakil Ahmad Romshoo, who was a guest of honour, said interdisciplinary research is the order of the day in academic institutions across the world.

"In the NEP-2020 there is a greater focus on social science research in view of its significance to address a host of pressing societal problems.

In fact, it is one of the prime mandates of universities to find solutions to such problems," he said, underlining that use of appropriate research methodologies would lead to better research outcomes while raising the standard of research conducted in academic institutions.

In his keynote address, Prof Durmus Ali Arsalan, Professor of Sociology at Mersin University Turkey spoke at length on the need for interdisciplinary research to make researchers more sound and their research original in nature. He referred to various interdisciplinary research techniques and how these could be helpful for young researchers.

"Interdisciplinary research also enables scholars from a particular institution to visit other institutions and gain from the expertise and resources there," he said.

In his welcome address, Head, SHIIS Prof Manzoor Ahmad Bhat spoke about the relevance and significance of Islamic Studies discipline in the contemporary times.

"This discipline has the potential to inculcate and promote universal ethical values like brotherhood, fellow feeling, tolerance, composite culture, deep humanism, peaceful co-existence, accommodative spirit and above all the pluralistic outlook of the society," he said.

Dr Nasir Nabi, Assistant Professor SHIIS presented a vote of thanks and also conducted proceedings of the inaugural session, which, among others, was attended by a galaxy of eminent academics and scholars.

3-week international workshop on Interdisciplinary Research begins at KU

Young researchers need to gear up to meet NEP-2020 objectives: VC

Precious Kashmir News

Srinagar, Dec 21: A three-week international-level workshop on interdisciplinary research methodology started at the University of Kashmir on Monday.

Vice-Chancellor Prof Talat Ahmad inaugurated the online workshop, organised by the varsity's Shah-I-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies (SHIIS).

Stressing on the need for promoting interdisciplinary research in academic institutions, Prof Talat said the flagship National Education Policy-2020 lays great emphasis on interdisciplinary research and young researchers therefore need to gear up to meet its objectives.

"The interdisciplinary research leads to a confluence of ideas and helps evolve strategies to address some of the pressing challenges in the society in a holistic manner," he said.

The Vice-Chancellor said young researchers should focus on "critical" problems and try to seek answers using methodologies which are appropriate to their research objectives. He congratulated SHIIS for organising the workshop which will help the present and future research scholars to learn the appropriate research methodologies and their significance.

Dean of Research at KU Prof

UNIVERSITY OF KASHMIR
SHAH-I-HAMADAN INSTITUTE OF ISLAMIC STUDIES

INAUGURAL FUNCTION
OF
"3-WEEK INTERNATIONAL INTERDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH METHODOLOGY WORKSHOP"

21-12-2020 at 11:00 am (IST)
Organized by
Shah-I-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies
University of Kashmir, Srinagar

Participants:

- Prof. Durmus Ali Arsalan
Professor, Department of General Sociology
Faculty of Arts and Sciences
Mersin University, Mersin, Turkey (Chief Guest)
- Prof. Talat Ahmad
Vice-Chancellor, University of Kashmir
(Inaugurating)
- Prof. Shakil Ahmad Romshoo
Chief Research Officer
University of Kashmir
(Guest of Honour)
- Dr. Haseeb Shahri
- Prof. Shaukat Ahmad Romshoo
Dean, Faculty of Islamic Studies

Shakil Ahmad Romshoo, who was a guest of honour, said interdisciplinary research is the order of the day in academic institutions across the world.

"In the NEP-2020 there is a greater focus on social science research in view of its significance to address a host of pressing societal problems. In fact, it is one of the prime mandates of universities to find solutions to such problems," he said, underlining that use of appropriate research methodologies would lead to better research outcomes while raising the standard of research conducted in academic institutions.

In his keynote address, Prof Durmus Ali Arsalan, Professor of Sociology at Mersin University Turkey spoke at length on the need for interdisciplinary research to make researchers more sound and their research original in nature.

He referred to various interdisciplinary research techniques and how these could be helpful for young researchers.

"Interdisciplinary research also enables scholars from a particular institution to visit other institutions and gain from the expertise and resources there," he said.

Three-week international workshop begins at KU

Young researchers need to gear up to meet NEP-2020 objectives, says Prof Talat

SRINAGAR: A three-week international-level workshop on interdisciplinary research methodology started at the University of Kashmir on Monday.

Vice-Chancellor Prof Talat Ahmad inaugurated the online workshop, organised by the varsity's Shah-i-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies (SHIIS).

Stressing on the need for promoting interdisciplinary research in academic institutions, Prof Talat said the flagship National Education Policy-2020 lays great emphasis on interdisciplinary research and young researchers therefore need to gear up to meet its objectives.

"The interdisciplinary research leads to a confluence of ideas and helps evolve strategies to address some of the pressing challenges in the society in a holistic manner," he said.

The Vice-Chancellor said young researchers should focus on "critical" problems and try to seek answers using methodologies which are appropriate to their research objectives. He congratulated SHIIS for organising the workshop which will help the present and future research scholars to learn the appropriate research methodologies and their significance.

Dean of Research at KU Prof Shakil Ahmad Romshoo, who was a guest of honour, said interdisciplinary research is the order of the day in academic institutions across the world.

"In the NEP-2020 there is a greater focus on social science research in view of its significance to address a host of pressing societal problems. In fact, it is one of the prime mandates of universities to find solutions to such problems," he said, underlining that use of appropriate research methodologies would lead to better research outcomes while raising the standard of research conducted in academic institutions.

In his keynote address, Prof Durmus Ali Arsalan, Professor of Sociology at Mersin University Turkey spoke at length on the need for interdisciplinary research to make researchers more sound and their research original in nature.

He referred to various interdisciplinary research techniques and how these could be helpful for young researchers.

"Interdisciplinary research also enables scholars from a particular institution to visit other institutions and gain from the expertise and resources there," he said.

In his welcome address, Head, SHIIS Prof Manzoor Ahmad Bhat spoke about the relevance and significance of Islamic Studies discipline in the contemporary times.

"This discipline has the potential to inculcate and promote universal ethical values like brotherhood, fellow feeling, tolerance, composite culture, deep humanism, peaceful co-existence, accommodative spirit and above all the pluralistic outlook of the society," he said.

Dr Nasir Nabi, Assistant Professor SHIIS presented a vote of thanks and also conducted proceedings of the inaugural session, which, among others, was attended by a galaxy of eminent academics and scholars. More than 200 research scholars and Assistant Professors from different colleges and universities in the country, from varied disciplines, have registered themselves for the workshop, even as invited resource persons are from different fields of study from academic institutions from within the country and abroad, including Malaysia and Turkey.

SHAH-I-HAMADAN INSTITUTE OF ISLAMIC STUDIES

Inaugural Function

"3 WEEK INTERNATIONAL INTERDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH METHODOLOGY WORKSHOP"

29-12-2020 at 11:00 am (IST)

Organized by

Shah-i-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies
University of Kashmir, Srinagar

Prof. Durmus Ali Arsalan
Professor, Department of General
Sociology
Faculty of Arts and Sciences
Mersin University, Mersin, Turkey
(Chief Guest)

Prof. Talat Ahmad
Vice-Chancellor
University of Kashmir
(Inauguration)

Prof. Shakil Ahmad Romshoo
Dean Research
University of Kashmir
(Guest of Honour)

Dr. Nasir Nabi
Coordinator Workshop

Prof. Manzoor Ahmad Bhat
Head
S.H. Institute of Islamic Studies
(Director Workshop)

3-week international workshop on Interdisciplinary Research begins at KU

Young researchers need to gear up to meet NEP-2020 objectives, says Prof Talat

+ Srinagar, Dec 21: A three-week international-level workshop on interdisciplinary research methodology started at the University of Kashmir on Monday.

Vice-Chancellor Prof Talat Ahmad inaugurated the online workshop, organised by the varsity's Shah-i-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies (SHIIS).

Stressing on the need for promoting interdisciplinary research in academic institutions, Prof Talat said the flagship National Education Policy-2020 lays great emphasis on interdisciplinary research and young researchers therefore need to gear up to meet its objectives.

"The interdisciplinary research leads to a confluence of ideas and helps evolve strategies to address some of the pressing challenges in the society in a holistic manner," he said.

The Vice-Chancellor said young researchers should focus on "critical" problems and try to seek answers using methodologies which are appropriate to their research objectives. He congratulated SHIIS for organising the workshop which will help the present and future research scholars to learn the appropriate research methodologies and their significance.

Dean of Research at KU Prof Shakil Ahmad Romshoo, who was a guest of honour, said interdisciplinary research is the order of the day in academic institutions across the world.

"In the NEP-2020 there is a greater focus on social science research in view of its significance to address a host of pressing societal problems. In fact, it is one of the prime mandates of universities to find solutions to such problems," he said, underlining that use of appropriate research methodologies would lead to better research outcomes while raising the standard of research conducted in academic institutions.

In his keynote address, Prof Durmus Ali Arsalan, Professor of Sociology at Mersin University Turkey spoke at length on the need for interdisciplinary research to make researchers more sound and their research original in nature.

He referred to various interdisciplinary research techniques and how these could be helpful for young researchers.

"Interdisciplinary research also enables scholars from a particular institution to visit other institutions and gain from the expertise and resources there," he said.

In his welcome address, Head, SHIIS Prof Manzoor Ahmad Bhat spoke about the relevance and significance of Islamic Studies discipline in the contemporary times.

"This discipline has the potential to inculcate and promote universal ethical values like brotherhood, fellow feeling, tolerance, composite culture, deep humanism, peaceful co-existence, accommodative spirit and above all the pluralistic outlook of the society," he said.

Dr Nasir Nabi, Assistant Professor SHIIS presented a vote of thanks and also conducted proceedings of the inaugural session, which, among others, was attended by a galaxy of eminent academics and scholars. More than 200 research scholars and Assistant Professors from different colleges and universities in the country, from varied disciplines, have registered themselves for the workshop, even as invited resource persons are from different fields of study from academic institutions from within the country and abroad, including Malaysia and Turkey.

3 week int'l workshop

Young researchers should focus on "critical" problems: Pro Talat

BK News Service

Srinagar: A three-week international-level workshop on interdisciplinary research methodology started at the University of Kashmir on Monday.

Vice-Chancellor Prof Talat Ahmad inaugurated the online workshop, organised by the varsity's Shah-i-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies (SHIIS).

Stressing on the need for promoting interdisciplinary research in academic institutions, Prof Talat said the flagship National Education Policy-2020 lays great emphasis on interdisciplinary research and young researchers therefore need to gear up to meet its objectives.

"The interdisciplinary research leads to a confluence of ideas and helps evolve strategies to address some of the pressing challenges in the society in a holistic manner," he said.

The Vice-Chancellor said young researchers should focus on "critical" problems and try to seek answers using methodologies which are appropriate to their research objectives. He congratulated SHIIS for organising the workshop which will help the present and future research scholars to learn the appropriate research methodologies and their significance.

Dean of Research at KU Prof Shakil Ahmad Romshoo, who was a guest of honour, said interdisciplinary research is the order of the day in academic institutions

UNIVERSITY OF KASHMIR
NAAC ACCREDITED A+

SHAH-I-HAMADAN INSTITUTE OF ISLAMIC STUDIES

RANK 43
NIRF 2020

Inaugural Function of
"3-WEEK INTERNATIONAL INTERDISCIPLINARY RESEARCH METHODOLOGY WORKSHOP"
21-12-2020 at 11:00 am (IST)
Organized by
Shah-i-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies
University of Kashmir, Srinagar

Prof. Durmus Ali Arslan
Professor, Department of General Sociology
Faculty of Arts and Sciences
Mersin University, Mersin, Turkey
(Chief Guest)

Prof. Talat Ahmad
Hon'ble Vice Chancellor
University of Kashmir
(Chief Patron)

Prof. Shakil Ahmad Romshoo
Dean Research
University of Kashmir
(Guest of Honour)

Dr. Nasir Nabi
(Coordinator Workshop)

Prof. Manzoor Ahmad Bhat
Head
S. H. Institute of Islamic Studies &
(Director Workshop)

Date	21 December, 2020	Timing	11:00 am to 12:12 pm (IST)	Platform	Google Meet	Place	University of Kashmir
------	-------------------	--------	----------------------------	----------	-------------	-------	-----------------------

across the world.

"In the NEP-2020 there is a greater focus on social science research in view of its significance to address a host of pressing societal problems. In fact, it is one of the prime mandates of universities to find solutions to such problems," he said, underlining that use of appropriate research methodologies would lead to better research outcomes while raising the standard of research conducted in academic institutions.

In his keynote address, Prof Durmus Ali Arslan, Professor of Sociology at Mersin University Turkey spoke at length on the need for interdisciplinary research to make researchers more sound and their research original in nature.

He referred to various interdisciplinary research techniques and how these could be helpful for young researchers.

"Interdisciplinary research also enables scholars from a particular institution to visit other institutions and gain from the expertise and resources there," he said.

In his welcome address, Head, SHIIS Prof Manzoor Ahmad Bhat spoke about the relevance and significance of Islamic Studies discipline in the contemporary times.

"This discipline has the potential to inculcate and promote universal ethical values like brotherhood, fellow feeling, tolerance, composite culture, deep humanism, peaceful co-existence, accommodative spirit and above all the pluralistic outlook of the society," he said.

Dr Nasir Nabi, Assistant Professor SHIIS presented a vote of thanks and also conducted proceedings of the inaugural session, which, among others, was attended by a galaxy of eminent academics and scholars. More than 200 research scholars and Assistant Professors from different colleges and universities in the country, from varied disciplines, have registered themselves for the workshop, even as invited resource persons are from different fields of study from academic institutions from within the country and abroad, including Malaysia and Turkey.

3-week international workshop on Interdisciplinary Research begins at KU

Young researchers need to gear up to meet NEP-2020 objectives, says Prof Talat

Srinagar, Dec 21: A three-week international-level workshop on interdisciplinary research methodology started at the University of Kashmir on Monday.

Vice-Chancellor Prof Talat Ahmad inaugurated the online workshop, organised by the varsity's Shah-i-Hamadan Institute of Islamic Studies (SHIIS).

Stressing on the need for promoting interdisciplinary research in academic institutions, Prof Talat said the flagship National Education Policy-2020 lays great emphasis on interdisciplinary research and young researchers therefore need to gear up to meet its objectives.

"The interdisciplinary research leads to a confluence of ideas and helps evolve strategies to address some of the pressing challenges in the society in a holistic manner," he said.

The Vice-Chancellor said young researchers should focus on "critical" problems and try to seek answers using methodologies which are appropriate to their research objectives. He congratulated SHIIS for organising the workshop which will help the present and future research scholars to learn the appropriate research methodologies and their significance.

Dean of Research at KU Prof Shakil Ahmad Romshoo, who was a guest of honour, said interdisciplinary research is the order of the day in academic institutions across the world.

"In the NEP-2020 there is a greater focus on social science research in view of its significance to address a host of pressing societal problems. In fact, it is one of the prime mandates of universities to find solutions to such problems," he said, underlining that use of appropriate research methodologies would lead to better research outcomes while raising the standard of research conducted in academic institutions.

In his keynote address, Prof Durmus Ali Arsalan, Professor of Sociology at Mersin University Turkey spoke at length on the need for interdisciplinary research to make researchers more sound and their research original in nature.

He referred to various interdisciplinary research techniques and how these could be helpful for young researchers.

"Interdisciplinary research also enables scholars from a particular institution to visit other institutions and gain from the expertise and resources there," he said.

In his welcome address, Head, SHIIS Prof Manzoor Ahmad Bhat spoke about the relevance and significance of Islamic Studies discipline in the contemporary times.

"This discipline has the potential to inculcate and promote universal ethical values like brotherhood, fellow feeling, tolerance, composite culture, deep humanism, peaceful co-existence, accommodative spirit and above all the pluralistic outlook of the society," he said.

Dr Nasir Nabi, Assistant Professor SHIIS presented a vote of thanks and also conducted proceedings of the inaugural session, which, among others, was attended by a galaxy of eminent academics and scholars. More than 200 research scholars and Assistant Professors from different colleges and universities in the country, from varied disciplines, have registered themselves for the workshop, even as invited resource persons are from different fields of study from academic institutions from within the country and abroad, including Malaysia and Turkey.